

RULE OF LAW AND PROTECTION OF FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS IN THE EUROPEAN UNION

Contents

§ 1 Introduction

- I. International and supranational cooperation and integration in the world order of states
- II. Two distinct European organisations with different functions: Council of Europe and European Union

§ 2 The European Union as an organisation

- I. The legal nature of the European Union
- II. The state as a member of the European Union
- III. The institutional framework of the European Union
- IV. The competences of the European Union (brief overview)
- V. The fundamental values of the European Union
 - in particular the commitment to rule of law and human rights
- VI. The citizen in the European Union (introduction)

§ 3 The legal system of the European Union

- I. The concept of integration through law
- II. The sources and characteristics of European Union law
- III. The execution of European Union law
- IV. The rule of law in the execution of European Union law
- V. Legal protection in the European Union

§ 4 General aspects of fundamental rights protection in the European Union

- I. Why does the European Union need its own fundamental rights regime?
- II. The fundamental rights under European Union law in the parallelism of global, geo-regional and national human and fundamental rights regimes
- III. The architecture of the fundamental rights protection in the European Union
- IV. The future accession of the European Union to the European Convention on Human Rights

§ 5 The Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union

- I. The history of the Charter of Fundamental Rights
- II. The legal significance of the Charter of Fundamental Rights
- III. The Charter as one of the most modern fundamental rights catalogues in the world
- IV. The categories of rights guaranteed in the Charter
- V. Innovations in the Charter of Fundamental Rights
- VI. The poorly conceived system of fundamental rights limits under the Charter
- VII. The relation between the Charter of Fundamental Rights and the European Convention on Human Rights