

Contents

§ 1 General Introduction

- I. Why studying German private law?
- II. The concept of private law
- III. General characteristics of German private law
- IV. The spectrum of German private law
- V. The problem of studying German private law in English

Part I: Basic concepts of German private law

§ 2 Introduction to the German Civil Code [Bürgerliches Gesetzbuch (= BGB)]

- I. Historical background
- II. Structure and regulated areas
- III. Systematic and regulatory style
- IV. Complementation by special legislation and judicial further development of law
- V. Amendments and reforms

§ 3 Methodological approach

- I. Jurisprudence of concepts [Begriffsjurisprudenz], jurisprudence of interests [Interessenjurisprudenz] and jurisprudence of values [Wertungsjurisprudenz]
- II. Legal interpretation
- III. Subsumption
- IV. Analogy
- V. Other legal methods

§ 4 Subjects and objects of law

- I. Legal entities (legal subjects) [Rechtssubjekte]
 - 1) Natural persons
 - 2) Legal persons [juristische Personen]
- II. Legal objects
 - 1) Things
 - 2) Animals
 - 3) Intellectual property rights
 - 4) Other rights
- III. Legal capacity [Rechtsfähigkeit] and capacity to perform legal acts [Geschäftsfähigkeit]

§ 5 Declaration of intent and legal transaction

- I. Two closely related key concepts of German private law
- II. The declaration of intent [Willenserklärung]
 - 1) The concept of declaration of intent
 - 2) The making (expression, form, receipt) of a declaration of intent
 - 3) The avoidance of a declaration of intent [Anfechtung]
 - 4) The interpretation of a declaration of intent
- III. Legal transactions [Rechtsgeschäfte]
 - 1) The concept of legal transaction
 - 2) Unilateral, bilateral and multilateral legal transactions
 - 3) Other categorisations of legal transactions

§ 6 The distinction between obligation transaction and disposition transaction

- I. An essential but almost unique feature of German private law
- II. The deconstruction of the business transaction into two (or more) distinct legal transactions: the principle of separation [Trennungsprinzip]
- III. The independence of the disposition transaction from the obligation transaction: the principle of abstraction [Abstraktionsprinzip]
- IV. Consequences of the separation and abstraction of obligation and disposition transaction

§ 7 Agency and representation

- I. Legal representatives, agents [Stellvertreter] and messengers
- II. Own declaration of intent, but in the name of the principal
- III. The power of agency
- IV. The liability of an agent without power of agency

Part II: The contract

§ 8 Private autonomy and its limits

- I. The concept of private autonomy
- II. Private autonomy as the fundamental idea behind the Civil Code
- III. Private autonomy as a fundamental right and a threat to fundamental rights
- IV. The social state principle as a limit to private autonomy
- V. Fundamental rights as a limit to private autonomy
- VI. The problem of restricting private autonomy to protect it against itself

§ 9 The conclusion, validity and content of a contract

- I. The conclusion of the contract through offer and acceptance
 - 1) The offer
 - 2) The acceptance
 - 3) The receipt of offer and acceptance
- II. The validity of the contract
 - 1) Contractual capability
 - 2) No lack of form
 - 3) No violation of statutory prohibitions
 - 4) No offence of common decency (contra bonos mores) [Sittenwidrigkeit]

- III. The interpretation of the contract
- IV. General terms and conditions [Allgemeine Geschäftsbedingungen]
- V. Special rules for consumer contracts [Verbraucherverträge]
- VI. Special rules against discrimination: the General Act on Equal Treatment

§ 10 Performance and irregularities in the performance

- I. The duty to perform
 - 1) General aspects
 - 2) Specific obligation and obligation in kind [Stückschuld & Gattungsschuld]
 - 3) Place of performance
 - 4) Time of performance
 - 5) Order of performance
- II. In particular: the duty to perform in good faith (bona fides) [Treu und Glauben]
- III. The debtor's (obligor's) liability for breach of duty
- IV. The creditor's (obligee's) right of rescission in the case of irregularities in performance
- V. Impossibility of performance [Unmöglichkeit]
 - 1) Objective and subjective, initial and subsequent impossibility of performance
 - 2) Release of the debtor from the duty to perform
 - 3) Release of the creditor from consideration
 - 4) Right of the creditor to rescind the contract
 - 5) Secondary claims of the creditor
- VI. Failure to perform in time (default) [Verzug]
- VII. Defective performance
 - including breach of collateral duties (former positive breach of contract)
 - including pre-contractual liability [culpa in contrahendo]
- VIII. Creditor's default

§ 11 The most important types of contracts regulated in the German Civil Code

- I. Purchase (sales) contract [Kaufvertrag]
- II. Lease (rental) contract [Mietvertrag] and usufructuary lease contract [Pachtvertrag]
- III. Service contract [Dienstvertrag], esp. employment contract [Arbeitsvertrag]
- IV. Contract to produce a work [Werkvertrag]
- V. Loan contract [Darlehensvertrag]
- VI. Others

§ 12 Exercise in practical case-solving in contract law

- solving a simple practical case on a contract in accordance with the dogmatic structure of the law of obligations
- with a first introduction to the German methods of legal case-solving

Part III: Other fields of private law (brief overview for orientation)

§ 13 Other fields regulated in the German Civil Code

- I. Unjustified enrichment [Bereicherungsrecht]
- II. Law of torts [Recht der unerlaubten Handlungen]
- III. Property law [Sachenrecht]

IV. Family law [Familienrecht]

V. Law of succession [Erbrecht]

§ 14 Important fields regulated in special legislation

I. Commercial law [Handelsrecht]

II. Corporate law [Gesellschaftsrecht]

III. Labour law [Arbeitsrecht]

IV. Civil procedural law [Zivilprozessrecht]

V. Private international law (law of conflicts) [Internationales Privatrecht]

§ 15 Final Discussion

- strength and weaknesses of German private law
- German private law from the foreign lawyer's perspective
- the perspective: towards a European Civil Code?

More information on this course at www.iuspublicum-thomas-schmitz.uni-goettingen.de and Canvas. For any questions, suggestions and criticism please contact me in office 219, via WhatsApp or via e-mail (tschmit1@gwdg.de).